An Attractive Card for the Opening To-day, When the Plack and Travers Stakes Will Be Beelded-Bobbins and Rey El Santa Anten Will Meet in the United States Hotel Stakes on Thursday. The Sir Walter-Banquet Match-Placing Jerome Park in Shape-Cleveland's Great Trotting Meeting-A Big Field in the Various Classes.

The Flash and Travers Stakes at Saratoga today will open the season of the Saratoga Racing Association most suspiciously. For the former, Ridicule, Cesarian, Silk Gown, Liza, and other fleet youngsters should make the scurry at half a mile interesting from start to finish, while Henry of Navarre, Lazzarone, and Rey El Santa Anita in the Travers should furnish one of the et three-year-old races of the year.

During the Sheepshead Bay meeting the owners of Lazzarone expressed their willingness to start Spinaway's good son against Henry of Navacre at equal weights at any distance over a mile. By common consent since Domino's reas the best three-year-old in training, although there will be plenty of money to back Dobbins when Mr. Croker's big colt measures strides with the New Jersey bred colt on Thursday for the United States Hotel Stakes. With Rey El ta Anita well rested after his trip from the West, and Dobbins, Lazzarone, and Henry of Navarre in good trim, the United States should be productive of great sport.

Mr. Headley was at Brighton Beach one day last week and was bemoaning the fact that he had not entered his smart colt John Cooper for Thursday's prize. He is eligible to start in the Travers to-day, but the distance is not exactly to his liking, and he will not see the post. Then, too, he has been in physic, and for some days will not be seen in public. Hornpipe is not to despised in any race in which he starts. Domino should round to more rapidly than ever Horse Haven, and the Mesars. Keene may have the pleasure of sending Himyar's greatest son to the post again this seas

A great majority of the faithful have gone to the Spa, where the best of the thoroughbreds in training will remain for some time; and there is noticeable effect on the Brighton Beach programme for to-day, not an animal with any ns to high class being known to start at the track by the sea. The meeting at the Beach has been singularly successful up to date, and while there has been more or less comory. A closer surveillance has been kept on the any previous year, and there is no doubt that the omething led them into a few mistakes, but fered any great amount of injury by their rulstrictly to form speculators can win, as the same has abundant opportunities to get a line on has abundant opportunities to get a line on them.

Reference to Domino recalls the fact that Mr. Henry Stull, the well-known artist, has placed on the market a splendid counter-presentment of the black colt, with Taral in the saddle. It shows to the best advantage all of Domino's characteristics, and the copies should have a ready sale. We have few artists who can paint the horse, especially the thoroughbred. Mr. Stull is at the top of his profession at this specialty.

It is gratifying to know that the Western Turf Congress has at last become reconciled with Edward Corrigan and other racing magnates of the West and South, and that there is gvery indication of the great family of turfmen swelling in harmony. The next step should be a closer welding of the interests of the Jockey Club and the Turf Congress.

The announcement that Sir Walter and Banquet had been matched to run two miles and a quarter at Jerome Park on Aug. 8, the opening day of the American Jockey Club, was received with many expressions of approval by the racing public, who have not seen horses of the first class run over a distance of ground in a number of years. There seems to be great confidence on both sides, and the betting should be very heavy on the race. At the present time both horses are doing remarkably well, and they will from now on receive a special preparation for the match, now on receive a special preparation for the match,

It has been no easy task to get the Jerome Park track in condition for the coming meeting, everything about the place, with the exception of the club house, having been permitted to run down to a great extent. Superintendent Brush had to put in 600 new panes of glass, repair fences, stables, and the track railings. It has been popularly supposed that there were no stones on the Jerome Park course. Brush says if he had a nickel for every rock that he has picked up within the past three weeks he could quit work to-morrow and live on his money.

Salor (selectal 60 Charter 96
For the first time in many years the Grand Circuit trotting meeting at Cleveland begins on Monday this season, and covers five days instead of the customary four. Situated as the Forest City is, convenient of access for the horsemen of all sections, it has long been looked upon as the strongest link in the chain of Grand Circuit cities. Some of the earlier meetings and all of the later ones are usually forced to divide the patronage of campaigning stables with rival associations claiming conflicting dates, but when the week comes round for the annual gathering in the Ohle town all other prominent tracks are closed, and the cracks of the whole country come together at Cleveland. Many brilliant meetings have been held at the old Glenville course since the memorable day when Smuggler and Goldamith Maid did natile on its golden soil for the supremacy of the turf, but none of former years has had the prospective importance and interest of the meeting which begins to-day.

The events of the week number fifteen, while the entries aggregate 202, an average of almost twenty horses in each race and more than enough for two successful meetings. As the sinb receives an entrance fee of five per cent, of the pures for every animal nominated, with a like amount from the four maney winners in each event, it is plain that the horsemen will be trotting for considerably less than their own money, while the association reaps a profit of about $6,000 in entrance fee, a $10,000 or more for the betting privileges, and about the same amount in gate receipts. Something approaching this was true at Detroit last weak, where the horses overtaxed the stabiling capacity of the Grosse Pointe track, foreing some of the trace who had entries at the meeting to canned our supposition of the stable of affairs is coming to be common on the trotting turf, and horsemen are now common on the trotting turf, and horsemen are how commo at Cleveland. First and foremost smong the features of the meeting is the promised debut of Fantasy in the free-for-all class. Some horse-men, who do not fancy the Electioneers all a racing family, have herestore claimed that Mr. Hamiln's famous filly, fast as she is known to be, would not do in actual contest with such seasoned cracks as Alix, Piz-ley, Lord Clinton, Walter E., and the rest, But they seem to forget that the won-derful four-year-old has the stout, thorough-bred blood of Asteroid and imp. Seythian close up in the maternal line through her dam. Homora, by Almonarch, which gives her the right to reach extreme speed and to live through divided heats. It is an unheard of thing for a four-year-old to try conclusions thus early in the season with the aged free-for-all trotters. However, Directum did the trick successfully last year, but his first start was not until September, and then he had no such horses to contend with as Alix and Pizley are in their present form.

Con the New York four-year-old take their measure in three successive heats? That is the question which Wednesday's contest will probably decide. It is said by those who saw Fantaay togreed the first heaf in 1:00% and that she was not fully extended in any part of the mile, although her last half was trotted in 1:00% and the horse first heaf in 1:00% and the horse Fantaay would have to meet at Cleveland, and his action in entering the filly against Alix, after seeing the latter win, and win easily, in 2:00%, attended in other properties of the latter win, and win easily, in 2:00%, attended to the latter win and win easily, in 2:00%, attended to the latter win and win easily, in 2:00%, attended to the latter win and win easily, in 2:00%, attended to the latter win and win easily, in 2:00%, attended to the latter win and the latter of called spon to contend with a fresh horse in every heat and trot three miles oundershly below 2:10. THE VIGILARY'S DEFEATS.

What the English Newspapers Have t The English newspapers are full of how the Britannia walked away from the Vigilant in their recent races on the Clyde, and while some of them seem to think the American [yacht may do better work later on, the majority of them profess to think the Britannia the superior on all points of sailing. The Times of July 12, in speaking of the Vigilant's defeat in the Royal Northern Yacht Club's regatta on July 11 at Rothesay, says:

The racing on the opening day at Rothesay was not of a stirring character, owing to the light breezes which prevailed, all the matches being long drawn out in consequence. There was a gentle breeze at the outset, but calms alternated after midday, and late in the efferment he vessels were hung up for a long time in the deldrums on the eastern side of the firth. The Britannia and Vigilant match was spoiled by the pairry weather at the start. Vigilant went off with great life and beat Britannia by upward of two minutes on a 4% miles beat. She unluckily ran out of the wind while going for the next mark, and Britannia ran past her and kept shead to the end, giving the American cutter an exemplary beating, both going to windward and reaching, while there was any truth in the wind. Vigilant struck into a calm just before the finish of the second round, and again on the Large side in doing the distance, and, in consequence she finished about three miles astern and 1114 minutes new mainsail and had some four tons of lead taken out, but it was not the day to show whether the altera-tion has improved her in speed.

There was a break yesterday in the long spell of southerly wind, the morning opening with a steady breeze from the northwest, which continued true all day, freshening however, as the shadows lengthened. The yachts Britannia and Vigiliant met again yester-day at the Royal Northern Yacht Glub's regatta in the Clyde on a fifty-mile course. The weather was most unfavorable for salling, and the Vigilant, having the worst of the luck, flushed a slow and uninteresting race miles astern of the Britannia. The timing at the finish was: Britannia, 6 hours 50 minutes 58 seconds; Vigiliant, 7 hours 1 minute 19 seconds.

If the Vigitant's friends expected any change of fortune with the resort to a square course they had reasons to be sadly disappointed, for the Britannia gave her the worst beating she has yet received. Nevertheless, it is expected she will try once more to morrow thursday to pull off a prize. And the pluck and determination of her owner, Mr. Gould, in coming up again after such disheartening defeats is the theme of general admiration on the Cirde. It may be said, indeed, that the sportsmanlike attitude in all respectabas made him most deservedly popular with all yachtamen, with whom he has come in contact since his arrival in this country. THE BALL PLAYERS' WORK.

SIX HARD GAMES SCHEDULED FOR THE NEW YORKS THIS WEEK.

Local Cranks Are Puszied Over the Boton at Boston-Frestdent Byrne Says that Balley and Rinelow Had a Row in the West, and that They Will Be Punished, The overwhelming defeats sustained by the New Yorks in Boston on Friday and Saturday have puzzled local cranks exceedingly. With the splendid work of the home team in the West still in mind, followers of Ward's men cannot understand how the Bostons should so outclass their pets. The arguments offered are that either the champions are playing a wonderfully strong game or the New Yorks, crippled by the absence of Jack Doyle, their heaviest bataman, have temporarily lost their grip. Certain it is that nobody for a moment believed that Rusic and Meckin would be so roughly handled; but when it is considered that the Bostons carned twenty-one runs in the two games, it is clearly evident that their great batting was most phenomenal. It is also evident that the Bostons are out for the pennant with a vengeance.

The New Yorks have six hard games before them this week. They play their last game in Boston to-day, and come back to the Polo Grounds to-morrow for three games with the League leaders, the Baltimores. The latter team have been greatly strengthened by the addition of Pitchers Gleason and John Clarkson, and begin to look like strong aspirants for the pennant. Hanlon has all along claimed for his men that they would finish fourth or fifth, but now he declares boldly that he'll be near the flag at the finish and that he's got the material to get there. The New Yorks are anxious to get square for those three opening defeats in Balti-more, and may surprise Hanlon's pets in more ways than one. On Friday and Saturday the more, and may surprise Hanlon's pets in more ways than one. On Friday and Saturday the local piayers will visit Philadelphia, also playing there next Monday. The Philadelphias, so far, have won six out of nine games from Ward's men, so that there are several accounts to be squared in the coming series.

The race between Boston and Baltimore for the lead grows more interesting every day. There is a difference of but five points between them this morning. While the Baltimores are here in New York, the Hostons will be entertaining the Brooklyns, so that from present indications there should not be a very wide margin between the leaders at the close of the week. The Clevelands are coming up with a rush again, as they are having their usual plenic with the weak. Western clubs. Internal troubles seem to have completely disrupted the Pittsburghs, who are steadily falling.

Since the Brooklyns returned to Eastern Park every one, who has taken note of their good playing there, has been wondering what caused the team to play so poorly on the Western trip. The men are playing with a snap and go, and if they had showed up as well on their trip they would have been well up to the front of the first column. Their losses are, accordingly, laid to something else than poor ball playing. This was, to all appearances, unbecoming behavior when away from the diamond. The Brooklyns have been noted all over the country for their gentlemnly bearing, and it was hard to see how they could have parted with this reputation, particularly as President Byrne was along to see that there was no breach of propriety.

According to the story told, there was an in-this reputation, particularly as President Byrne was along to see that there was no breach of propriety.

According to the story told, there was an indulgence in a barroom brawl that humiliated the firm admirers of the team. That Dalley and Kinslow were the participants in the scrap is now vouched for. Dalley admitted that he was in a fight, and intimated that he did not get the worst of it. Kinslow was sent home to Washington for a week. Dalley kept on doing the catching for the team. He was relieved when Kinslow rejoined the team at Baltimore, and has been sitting in the grand stand ever since, thus giving rise to a suspicion that he had been laid off.

To The Sux reporter Dailey said on Saturday that he had not been spoken to on the subject of the row by President Byrne. He further said that he was not in uniform because of a cut in his hand which had not yet healed. Without questioning. Dailey added: "I guess there won't be any releasing, for I would have known of it."

"It is not only the loafers that fight," said President Byrne in discussing the affair, "it is sometimes the gentlemen, too. The two players were implicated in a fight between themselves at Philadelphia. They will be dealt with as they deserve, but what this will be I cannot determine until I have consulted with my colleagues in the Brooklyn Club." President Byrne further said that he was not in a position to say that there would be any releases, and that Earle and Underwood were signed to strengthen the team.

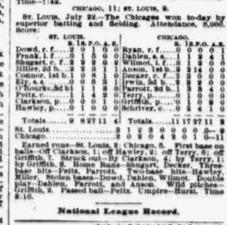

Underwood, the New Brooklyn Pitcher,

Fred Underwood, the new pitcher of the appearance and style of play. He is a well-built young man, but a poor runner. At the bat he young man, but a poor runner. At the bat he assumes an easy position and hits at the ball with great freedom. He appears to be a most promising pitcher. He has speed and wide curves, and also commands a puzzling slow ball. In head work, Underwood is by no means lacking. In the game against Philadelphia on Saturday, while he was touched up pretty freely, he showed considerable nerve and great coolness with men on bases. He seems to be a clever fielder in his position, and after a little experience with League batsmen, he should turn out to be something of a winner. With Earle behind the bat and Underwood in the points, the Brooklyns may be said to have an excellent "pony" battery.

An original innovation, in the shape of an eggthrowing match, was one of the features of the annual outing and games of the William J. Aikman Association, a west side Tammany organi-zation, which took place yesterday afternoon at Point View. Long Island. In the egg contest four lads, placed on the four corners of an imag inary square, faced each other. The competitors carried in their hands ten eggs. The idea was to hit the nearest competitor upon any part of the body above the abdomen, the one having the best aim to be declared the winner. Patrick Lyons, Tom Carmody, William Forshay, and Bill Shinneck entered. A crisp $5 bill was the incentive.

is quite a stout young fellow, but he can throw to perfection. He began proceedings by hitting Shinneck, who stood opposite him, five times it cipient was nearly blinded by the contents of the eggs and, thinking discretion the better par of valor, he retreated to the other side of the of valor, he retreated to the other side of the grounds. Lyons then turned his attention to Forshay, He caught the latter three times out of five throws. Lyons received a good share of the contents of Forshay's and Carmody's eggs. The latter pair finished the battle between themselves, and were pretty badly worsted when time was called. The judges then placed Lyons first, Carmody second, and Forshay third.
The athletic games were then held. William O'Keffe of the Xavier A. C. captured two events. The rain interfered considerably with the contests. A baseball game between the Hounds and the W. J. Alkman Association was next played. The latter won by 18 to 17. Summaries of the athletic games:

football at Ridgewood resterday was prevented by the rain and wet field. The Shamrocks of Jersey City and the Garryowens of this city were the contestants, but they only played onehalf hour, at the end of which time they decided that the weather was too much for them. After five minutes of spirited hustling P. Ward made a point for the Garryowons by a well-directed kick. The Shamrocks then braced up and Gallagher and Colbert quickly scored points. A feature of the playing was a beautiful stop of an aimost certain goal by J. McCarthy, the Garryowens' goal tender. At the end of the first half hour play was ended for the day with the score 2 points to 1 point in favor of the Shamrocks. The teams were as follows:

The Seaside A. C., of Brooklyn, which recently scored a decisive victory over Mayor Schieren by appealing to the courts and forcing him to grant a first-class license, will give its first exhibition in the big Coney Island Casino on the night of Aug. 1. The programme includes a sixround go between Danny McBride and Eddie Lober at 120 pounds, an eight-round contest at 133 pounds between Jack Handler and Hugh Winters, and a ten-round argument between Mike Leonard and Eddie Pierce at catch weights. There will also be a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match between Hugh Leonard, of the New York A.C., and I. Weissmuller, of the New York Turn Verein.

It is understood that there are to be no knock-outs. Police inspector McKelvey will be at the ring side to see that no brutality is indulged in.

THE "BELFAST SPIDER" WORSTED

Ike Weir Wanted to Pight, and Thomas McManus Accommodated Him. Boston, July 22.-Isaac O'Nefl Weir, the "Belfast Spider," got into trouble with Thomas McManus yesterday afternoon and both men were arrested. It appears that as Weir was passing along Tremont row, McManus accidentally ran against him. Weir, it is said, told Mc-Manus that if he had him in private he would punch his head. McManus asked Weir, whom he did not know, if he knew a place where they did, and the pair retired to the building, 7 Tre-mont row, where Welr led the way into an empty room.

The men took off their coats and were fighting some little time before the police learned of the affair, when two inspectors were quickly detailed to arrest the men. Weir presented a sadlooking sight, while McManus was exarely injured. Both were locked up on the charge of mutual assault and battery.

Boxers Cross Arms at Flatlands. A good programme delighted several hundred spectators Saturday night at Flatlands. Johnny Dunu managed the affair, officiating as master

Jack Molloy, South Greenfield A. C., first appeared for a four-round contest with Pat Daly of Brooklyn. It was a good lively bout, with plenty of stiff two-handed exchanges, and there wasn't a murmur throughout the house. It was called a draw. Clever little Frank Hennessey, Greenwood A.

Clever little Frank Hennessey, Greenwood A.
C., then faced William Lowell, the "South Brooklyn Colored Spider," for four rounds at 110 pounds, After the second round Lowell
cried enough.

Martin Gleason and Leon Burke, both of South Brooklyn, put up a hammer-and-tongs
"go" that set the sports to cheering. It was a "draw" after four hot rounds.

Just for a change a catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout between Pat Moran of Flatbush and William Werld of England followed. A fall apiece and a draw was the verdict after a quarter of an hour's work by the gladiators. Then Jim Johnson of New York punched James Rhoades of Flatlands so hard for four rounds at catch weights that the "clam digger" was nearly out.

"Bix rounds at 145 pounds; Christy McManus, the 'Pride of Flatbush,' versus Steve Grogan of Brooklyn," was the way the M. C. put it for the final. Stephen won easily in four rounds,

Fred Johnson had a benefit in London recently. He boxed three clever rounds with his late opponent, Dave Wallace. At the end of the bout Johnson sold that he would come to America and meet Dixon again. The London Sporting Life publishes the following challenge from George Johnson. "I will accept the challenge of Jack Skelly and meet him upon fits arrival in England. At present I am walling to har from Harry Spurden."

Jerry Barnett says he wants to fight, Johnny Griffin, the "Braintree Lad," is the man whom Barnett would like to meet above all others. Jerry thinks that, as he fought Dixon a draw, Griffin could not very readily refuse to fight him at 120 pounds before the beaside A. C.
